

RIP Chef Andy Gibb

The Culinary World are deeply saddened by the recent passing of Chef Andy Gibb who quietly slipped away in his sleep in Singapore last week.

From Dunedin to Milford Sound, Queenstown, Christchurch and more recently Singapore, Gibby was held in the highest regard as a professional Chef and mentor. When the culinary world required assistance Gibby was always first to have his hand up.

Queenstown hosted a multitude of Culinary events back in 2002. Chefs from 18 countries appreciated fantastic cuisine they enjoyed from the team Andy led.

Gibby has been recognised for his incredible work in the development of the Singapore Junior Chefs Club where he became the group's Honorary Advisor.

Above all Andy was a mate to the Culinary Fraternity. An industry that is heartbroken it could not say as personal goodbye.

The Culinary Arts has lost a man of many achievements. He will be fondly remembered for his kindness, respect, generosity, and sincerity. A real Kiwi bloke who did not suffer fools or accept any bull shit.

We are all the richer for sharing such a wonderful friend.

The Culinary World sends its sincere condolences to Fiona, Jonty, and Charlie.
